

Steve has served in the higher education postal and logistics industry for over 35 years, starting his career as a Central Receiving Clerk at Regis University. Shortly after that Steve was moved into a Lead position, Supervisor and then Manager of Central Receiving. Within his first few years as Manager Steve built, refined and advanced his department through growth and technology turning Central Receiving into a multi-faceted program by adding a bulk mail operation and eventually adopting the campus printing and copy operation.

After 13 years with Regis University, Steve earned the opportunity to move into the Assistant Manager position at Colorado State University Central Receiving and shortly following moved into the Director position. At the time Central Receiving consisted of Mail Distribution, Mail Production, Shipping and Receiving. Since then, Steve and his team have adopted Surplus Property and have built a multitude of other new services and programs including a centralized university wide warehousing and storage operation, document management - scanning and digitization, document shredding, lab ethanol distribution, event rentals, campus bike shop with educational component, PPE central store and more.

Steve has been an active NACUMS member for over 25 years. He is the founder of ARMCUMS which earned him a seat on the NACUMS board as a regional representative. Over the years Steve has served in the capacity as NACUMS Vice President, Treasurer, MTAC Rep, and three terms as President. He has served as the conference committee chair for over 17+ years and when not chairing Steve still played a key role in the planning, site selection and production of our events.

Steve's motivation for advancing things he's involved with and his commitment, passion, and love for the NACUMS organization and its members is clear through his continued involvement and ongoing commitment to the organization.
